

The Prospect of Multiple Worlds

To register: 305-919-5900

Course

New physics suggests the possibility of a world of worlds beyond our wildest imagination: the multiverse. Quantum mechanics, string theory and inflation theory all predict these parallel universes. Is our fine-tuned universe just one of many which happens to be just right for life? We explain the science in everyday language.

Details

Tuesday

October 15

12:30 – 2:00 am

$10

Instructor

Mark Egdall is the award-winning author of the popular science book Einstein Relatively Simple: Our Universe Revealed in Everyday Language. A retired aerospace program manager, he has been teaching at South Florida lifelong learning programs since 2006.

at

Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at FIU
305.919.5900 | olli@fiu.edu | <https://olli.fiu.edu>
3000 Northeast 151 Street, North Miami, FL 33181